MARKET OVERVIEW

The upward move in yields, which accelerated in September, weighed heavily on equity markets as valuations were pushed lower. Stocks and bonds moving lower certainly brought back memories of 2022 but there is an important distinction. Last vear it was all about inflation and the response from central banks, hiking to arrest rising prices. Over the past few months, inflation expectations have remained stable, as have market expectations of peak overnight bank lending rates. This rise in yields is more about economic resilience, causing higher yields to be priced in longer.

This could be the 'blow-off' top for yields. Could they move higher, thru 5% or some have even started bouncing around 6 and 7s? Anything is possible but we don't buy it. The cracks in the economic foundation continue to grow and we believe will become more prevalent in the coming months. In fact, softer economic data would likely result in a move higher in both equities and bonds for a spell.

The Purpose Core Equity mandate fell -3.1% in the third quarter, slightly underperforming its benchmark the S&P/TSX Composite which fell -2.2%. Dividend yield as a factor remains challenged largely due to rising rates, outperforming only low volatility. Meanwhile, Growth as a factor has been top of the list. Considering the dividend universe tilts heavily towards value, 2023 in short has been a challenge.

Yield across the universe, however, continue to grow. 55 companies now yield over 5% in the S&P/TSX Composite, 10 yield more than 8%.

PORTFOLIO ACTIVITY

These are not high-risk businesses on the verge of collapse. They are arguably highquality, companies such as Enbridge, TC Energy, and many REITs. Even amongst the banks, the yields have crept up to very attractive levels. For instance, the Bank of Nova Scotia now yields 7.3%. Not bad for a bank that has never cut its dividend, even through the challenges of the great financial crisis. Though many of these yields are tempting, we continue to maintain an elevated cash balance, looking for opportunities to deploy on weakness.

In the third quarter, a healthy exposure to Energy was the largest contributor to performance. Cameco, Arc Resources, and Suncor all had a solid quarter, which helped buttress weakness across many other sectors. In particular, Utilities notably detracted from performance as both Algonquin and Emera came under pressure. Higher rates also affected gold prices, which pressured our lone gold producer Barrick.

We executed a number of trades within the quarter. Early in the summer we bought Arc Resources to materially in increase the portfolios Energy exposure. We also added a small position in Pet Value. The Canadian pet store, is trading at attractive valuations and we believe the industry has a very solid long term growth outlook. Other trades included trimming Cameco after some incredible strength and reducing bank exposure in exiting JPMorgan. Proceeds were used to enter a new position in Lockheed Martin as well as increase the position size in Procter and Gamble. Overall, we view these trades a further de-risking the portfolio's while retaining some cyclicality primarily through our energy positions.

Our overweight position in Health Care is a result of our view that the sector is trading at attractive relative valuations and has strong defensive characteristics. Pharmaceutical stocks in particular are less prone cyclical swings during times of slowing economic growth. As mentioned, we have increased exposure to Energy, particularly towards producers. Pipelines have also sold off recently, and the dividends are very attractive at these levels, but as of yet, we have not added to our positions. Rate sensitive stocks across the board have been under pressure, but for now we remain on the sidelines.

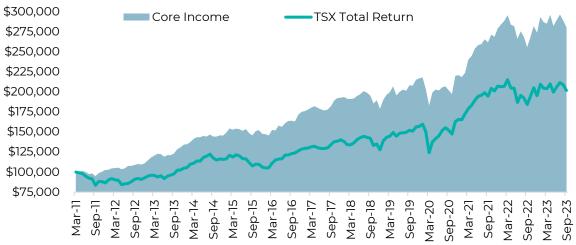

Heading into Q4, we'd prefer not to chase growth outperformance. The next few months will be pretty important from a market perspective. Cracks continue to grow in both the markets and the economy. Financial conditions have tightened considerably, and we remain committed to staying defensive. This mandate continues to maintain an elevated cash balance and is increasingly tilted to traditionally defensive sectors.
